Archives III JH

Harvard University

© 2011 President and Fellows of Harvard College

Archives of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard University, Cambridge, MA 02138

© 2011 President and Fellows of Harvard College

Descriptive Summary

Repository: Arnold Arboretum, Jamaica Plain, MA.
Call No.: III JH
Location: Archives.
Date: 1919-1992.
Quantity: 2 linear inches.
Abstract: Hers, a Belgian citizen, originally went to China as an interpreter with the Belgium Ministry of Foreign Affairs, though he would eventually hold several jobs in that country. Despite describing his own knowledge of botany as “very limited,” between 1919 and 1924, Hers compiled and sent to the Arnold Arboretum over 2000 plant specimens. The materials in this collection primarily document Meyer’s research and travel in Asia during 1919 and 1923-24.
Note: Access to Finding Aid record in HOLLIS.
Preferred Citation: Joseph Hers papers. Archives of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard University.
Additional material: Additional Joseph Hers correspondence may be available in the Arnold Arboretum Correspondence Index. See a sample of the specimens collected by Hers in the Harvard University Herbaria Index of Botanical Specimens.

Acquisition Information

Provenance: Joseph Hers’ photographs and the majority of his correspondence were acquired by the Arboretum during his association with the Arboretum as a plant collector.

Terms of Access

Researchers seeking to examine archival materials are strongly encouraged to make an appointment. The Director, or an office of origin, may place restrictions on the use of some or all of its records. The extent and length of the restriction will be determined by the Director, office of origin, and the Archivist and will be enforced equally for all researchers.

Terms of Use

The copyright is held by The President and Fellows of Harvard College for the Arnold Arboretum Archives of Harvard University. The copyright on some materials in the collection may be held by the original author or the author's heirs or assigns. Researchers are responsible for obtaining written permission
Biographical Note
Joseph Hers was born in Mamur, Belgium on September 6, 1884. Holding a degree in “Sciences Commerciales et Consultaires,” Hers arrived in China in 1905, employed as an interpreter for the Belgium Ministry of Foreign Affairs. He fulfilled various functions as an attaché to the Consulate General of Belgium in Shanghai until 1913, when he became Secretary General of the Belgium financed Lunghai and Pienlo railways, a post he held until 1944. He was also an assessor at the International mixed court in Shanghai, where assessors, like Hers, sat with the Chinese judge and represented the interest of the foreign plaintiff.

In 1915, Hers founded the Sino-Belgian Friendship Association and then later established the Sino-Belgian Inter-University Commission. He was also president of the Sino-Belgian Commission for Education and Philanthropy; it was in this capacity that he arranged for Chinese students to attend Belgium universities.

Through Hers's efforts, one young Eurasian woman would attend Brussels University and go on to obtain a medical degree in London. Born Rosalie Elisabeth Kuanghu Chow, she was the daughter of Zhou Yintong, a railway engineer who had also attended university in Belgium, where he met and married Marguerite Denis. Chow would practice medicine and then become a well-known and respected novelist, writing under the pseudonym Han Suyin (she is also known by her married name, Elisabeth Comber). In A Mortal Flower, 1966, the second volume of a two volume autobiography, Suyin describes her impressions of Joseph Hers in 1928: “very tall, gaunt, a bald head, piercing blue eyes, a big nose, a small moustache and beard, a loud voice and an air of command,” and who also had “that vigor, meticulousness and vitality that characterizes the explorer.” According to Suyin, Hers was as interested in archaeology as he was in botany and helped excavate some Chou dynasty tombs. She also recounts his plant collecting methods:

He was also a good botanist and collected specimens all over China. His contribution to this branch of science is very creditable, for he sent to the Arnold arboretum at Harvard thousands of specimens of plants from north Honan, then a botanically unexplored region. He went on safaris with a trail of porters, immune to fatigue, weather or insects. His appearance struck terror in village children, his height and voice made the timorous Chinese officials of those days cringe in fear.
In a July 18, 1919 letter to Charles Sprague Sargent, the Arnold Arboretum’s first director, Hers wrote that although his “own knowledge of botany is, I regret to say, very limited, I happen to live in a part of China where very few botanical collections, if any, have been made, and as I enjoy frequent opportunities to travel in little known districts . . .” Enclosed with the letter was a list of trees and shrubs that included a number of new species, and Hers offered to send “seeds, or cuttings, or photos.” Sargent replied that “this is one of the most important collections of Chinese plants which has been sent to Juglans. China. June 23, 1923 the Arboretum and I am extremely obliged to you for sending it to us.”

The Arnold Arboretum has 63 images of botanical subjects taken between 1919 and 1924 by Hers. He also collected seed and herbarium specimens for the Arnold Arboretum that amounted to over 2,000 species. See the Harvard University Herbaria Index of Botanical Specimens for a sample of these acquisitions. Between 1922 and 1938, Hers also published papers on the cultivated and indigenous woody plants of China, Manchuria, and the Pacific provinces of Russia, and on Chinese names of plants.

After World War II, Hers remained in Belgium and in the late 1950s, he resided in Brussels and was a member of the International Dendrology Union – now the International Dendrology Society. Hers continued his interest and connection with China through a twenty-year post as General Secretary of the Association Belge pour l’Extreme–Orient, a position he retained until the year of his death, 1965.

Scope and Content

This collection consists of letters written by Joseph Hers, biographical and bibliographic materials about Joseph Hers, planting lists, and photographs taken during Hers’ trips to Asia. Materials in the collection date from 1919 through 1992, with most items relating to the 1919 and 1923-24 trips to Asia. 68 images of eastern Asia taken in 1919, and 1923–24 have been digitized and are available on VIA.

Arrangement

The Hers collection is organized in two series:

I. Correspondence, Biographic and Bibliographic Materials, Planting Lists.

II. Images
Container List
Series I: Correspondence, Biographic and Bibliographic Materials, Planting Lists
Folder 1: Correspondence of Joseph Hers

NOTE: Additional Joseph Hers correspondence can be found by searching the Arnold Arboretum Correspondence Index.

Correspondence between Joseph Hers and Charles Sprague Sargent can be found in Charles Sprague Sargent’s letterbooks, IB CSS, Series II, Box 9: (8/27/1919, p. 431, and 9/12/1919, p. 455). Letters between Joseph Hers and Charles Sprague Sargent are also housed in Sargent’s Pre-1927 Correspondence file.

- Joseph Hers to Arnold Arboretum, Shanghai. July 9, 1938.
2: Correspondence about Joseph Hers

3: Biographic and Bibliographic Materials

- Biography of Joseph Hers. French.
- Review by D. Bois of photographs containing Magnolia Aulacosperma by Joseph Hers.

4: Planting Lists

- Planting list. "Collections of Joseph Hers within the Arnold Arboretum – October 1987."
- Planting list. French.
The Arnold Arboretum retains Joseph Hers images in two formats: black and white photographs mounted on boards and digital images. Of particular note are Hers’ 68 images of eastern Asia taken in 1919, 1923–24 which have been digitized and are available on Harvard’s Visual Information Access (VIA) system which is a union catalog of visual resources at Harvard. It includes information about slides, photographs, objects and artifacts in the university’s libraries, museums and archives. To find and display Hers’ photographs of eastern Asia, search HOLLIS for keywords Hers and Eastern Asian Historical Photograph Collections.